Northstate Mycological Club is a group of folks interested in study of local mushrooms. It is an informal club that meets weekly from late July to early October. The club began in 1996 with a membership of 18 and has grown to over 60 members. Anyone interested in learning more about mushrooms is welcome to join us. We strive to develop a scientific understanding of mushrooms, to appreciate their beauty and unique place in the environment, and also to promote the safe gathering and use of wild mushrooms as food.
